LMI COLORADO

CHEMICAL DEPARTMENT

We would like to introduce our Chemical Division Manager Corey Porter. He is a proud native of picturesque Littleton, Colorado, Corey Porter boasts an impressive 19-year tenure in the landscaping industry. Throughout his extensive career, Corey has seamlessly navigated various facets of the field, ranging from mowing and hardscape landscaping to operating heavy equipment and delving into the intricacies of chemical applications. His expertise extends to fertilizers, herbicides, and all aspects of the green industry. Recognized for his exceptional attention to detail, Corey consistently ensures that commercial properties under his care remain lush, green, and weed-free, drawing upon his extensive knowledge of chemicals and their optimal usage in the unique climate of Colorado.

MYTH: FERTILIZER IS USED ONLY TO MAKE GRASS GREEN.

FACTS: While fertilizer does indeed help bring out a rich green color in grass, that aesthetic boost is not its greatest benefit.

A well-fertilized lawn has a strong root system, enabling it to stand up to stressors like extreme temperature swings, drought and mowing. In addition, thick, healthy grass to create lawns that are strong enough to fight back against weeds and to apply weed control products.

Welcome to June in Colorado! According to the National Weather Service June can be the month with the most severe weather. While June is mostly like summer, it is not scared to sprinkle in a few damaging punches of drenching thunderstorms, wind gusts, hail, and tornadoes.

However, should June throw punches at us don't worry, we will have crews ready to jump into action and get us cleaned up. June is the third-warmest month of the year just behind July and August. The hottest June recorded was 105 back in 2012.

Colorado Adventure

FIBArk 2024
June 13, 14, 15 & 16
Salida, Colorado

The acronym "FIBArk" stands for First in Boating in the Arkansas River - originally devised by a group of community members in the 1930's, many of them real estate agents, to draw attention to Salida and give an opportunity for local boaters to demonstrate their paddling skills.

Flash forward to today ... FIBArk is America's longest standing whitewater festival and in recent years, the FIBArk festival has drawn as many as 30,000 people to our small town of Salida, Colorado.

Through partnerships with generous local businesses, passionate individuals, and the City of Salida, FIBArk funds classes and equipment for both river safety and skill building.

The program is designed to introduce river concepts and experiences, teach skills and techniques, facilitate experiences and competitions, and develop lifelong river and river sport advocates.
