A SUMMER OF GROWTH: FROM CLASSROOM TO CAREER

LMI CO continues to prioritize professional development across all levels — from the field and the office to the classroom.

This summer, Aramanta C. joined the team as a marketing intern, working closely with Nicole Stone and Ana Salas over a six-week period.

During her time with the company, Aramanta quickly immersed herself in LMI CO's brand, products, mission, and values.

She hit the ground running by redesigning the company's upright banners and half-flyers, bringing a fresh perspective to existing materials.

Her internship concluded with a thoughtful reflection on her journey as a Summer Intern.

Check out her final project below!

My work:

My journey as in intern

With great honor I was able to start working as an intern for LMI Colorado. I came in here with the want of learning and I left satisfied. What I loved about working with LMI is the honest feedback they provided for me. Their feedback gave me an opportunity to learn from my mistakes and improve. I want to give special thanks to Nicole Stone and Ana Salas for their great communication and providing me with feedback and information that helped me help them throughout this internship.

This internship was fully online, Canva.com was used to make the posts. It was a span of 6 weeks, we had a meeting every Tuesdays and Thursdays to check in on the progress I made on the projects. Any advice I would give to future interns is to be open with the feedback that is given. LMI gives feedback, not to criticize but to have what's best for the company and their vision but still letting you be creative.

SUMMER CARE FOR LAWNS

Controlling weeds in your lawn:

The best way to control weeds in your lawn is to maintain a dense, healthy, vigorous stand of lawn grass.

Good practices of seeding, mowing, watering, fertilizing and judicious use of herbicides, can help achieve a healthy lawn.

To keep weeds from becoming established, avoid frequent, shallow watering and mowing too short, which decreases the vigor of the lawn.

Women in Green

Fun time with amazing women from all aspects of the green industry. Coming together to share and grow.
